PSG on crutches for UCL opener

» The league phase of the UEFA Champions League always produces some big upsets as Europe's giants of football vie for one of the most coveted titles in the world, and this season will be no exception – offering TAB football customers a perfect range of opportunities to score big wins as soccer pools are boosted with add-ins and carryovers while the action on the field hots up with every round.

Champions League action in Europe got underway in earnest last night as the league phase kicked off, and while it is still far too early to pick a possible winner, there are clubs with excellent early form after just the opening six weeks of the new season. A number of matches tonight and tomorrow offer some intrigue, as well as possible upsets. Ajax Amsterdam, for example, are worth backing for home success against Inter Milan and Chelsea to win away at German champions Bayern Munich. Newcastle United will not be many pundits' pick to beat Barcelona tomorrow, but they, too, are worth tipping for victory in an intimidating atmosphere at St James' Park. Champions League holders Paris St Germain posted a handy win over Racing Lens in Ligue 1 at the weekend but suffered another three injuries, adding to a calamitous list of players sidelined already. Out of the clash tonight against Atalanta, go Khvicha Kvaratskhelia, Lee Kang-in and Lucas Beraldo, joining Ousmane Dembele and Desire Doue on the sidelines after they were hurt playing for France in World Cup qualification earlier this month. The "avalanche of injuries", as PSG coach Luis Enrique called it, means Atalanta have a small window of opportunity, but French giants should still have too many guns at their disposal. Ajax have begun their new Dutch season much more positively than they did the last, and even though they sold a few players again in the off-season, can upset Inter Milan in Amsterdam. Liverpool should get the better of Atlético Madrid, who are always a stubborn opponent and had a solid success on Saturday when they ended Villarreal's unbeaten start to the season. Liverpool had some good fortune go their way as they burgled a last-gasp win at Burnley, but even if it was not impressive, it reinforced that they are a club who know how to win games. In the Premier Soccer League tonight, Stellenbosch will be looking to not only put the disappointment of losing in the MTN8 final behind them, but also to earn points away at AmaZulu after a slow start to the season. Admittedly, Stellenbosch had Kaizer Chiefs, Mamelodi Sundowns, and Orlando Pirates in their opening five league games, and now that those giants are out the way, they want to climb the log. They thrashed AmaZulu 5-0 away last season but will find tonight's tussle in KwaMashu a much more difficult proposition. Champions Sundowns are six matches unbeaten in the league as they chase a ninth successive title and are in Bloemfontein tonight to take on Marumo Gallants. Sundowns then play a third game in six days on Saturday when they host Durban City in Atteridgeville, but given the quality of their squad, this should not be too taxing an assignment. Chiefs and Pirates begin their respective African club competition adventures away from home on Saturday, but while Chiefs have a tough one at Kabuscorp of Angola in the African Confederation Cup, Pirates should have little trouble against Lioli from Lesotho in a match played in Bloemfontein.
